Campus Updates

- A fully vaccinated and boosted dining services leadership staff member tested positive for COVID-19 today. Staff who may have been exposed to this staff member have been contacted and are all being tested per required timing standards. There were no residents who had direct contact with this staff member.
- We continue to ask visitors to wear masks when they come into Luther Manor. We have had to remind and coach some visitors, yet with the latest surge of positive cases nationwide we want to reiterate this proactively. This way reactive coaching is not necessary. Please think of others and in many cases some of the most vulnerable of our population by wearing your mask as you enter any area at Luther Manor. Remember to always screen in first and practice social distancing and proper hand hygiene. Together this combination of best practices and requirements will help us keep everyone safe.
- A fully vaccinated and boosted resident in our Terrace Independent Living apartments tested positive for COVID-19. It was believed that she contracted it at a visit to urgent care. There are two residents who may have had direct contact and are now in contact with their doctors and are being tested plus watching for symptoms.
- We miss sharing the fun stuff that's been happening here due to the surge being a bit of a distraction. I'll try catching up over the next few weeks...

Here is an awesome shot and video from Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra's Peter J. Thomas and his concert for our Terrace residents using his electric cello that should get your feet moving!. His covers of John Lennon's "So this is Christmas", U2's "With or without you" and the Beatles "Here comes the sun" and "Come together" are just amazing!
